Our aim is to transmit the experience we have developed over 40 years in our practice of Oriental medicine and to present its basis in a simple, logical and direct way. While following these teachings, you will experience a particular approach and understanding of the Yin-Yang balance, the application of which brings undeniable results, even in cases of serious diseases, such as cancer. You may find testimony of the results of such treatments referring to the efficiency of our approach on our website (www.ecole-medecine-orientale.com).

The course is intended for medical doctors and qualified paramedical therapists. We would like to share this method with therapists on a wide scale and possibly engage scientists into contributing to incorporate its basic notions and approach into modern science so as to make them accessible to a larger public.
